However, besides the potential to save lives, the Sutton group help out at community events. For 30 years RAYNET have helped at the Sutton Park Night Operation, run by Birmingham City Council. Children split into teams of four and find their way around the park, stopping off at check-points on the way. Members from across the Midlands help out at the event bringing their kit along so every checkpoint can be manned by a RAYNET enthusiast to check the position of all the teams. John said: "We have been helping out for years and it takes a lot of planning to ensure everything passes off smoothly - the police ask us to help out and we're only too happy to oblige."
